Stephanie, I am so very sorry for the loss of Jessee. I enjoyed looking at your pictures and getting a glimpse of your life with him. It is so obvious that you and the kids were his life and he loved each of you in a special way. There is no loss more heart breaking than the loss of your soulmate and the father of your children. God does numb the pain for a while...and allows you to grow stronger one day at a time... I love you and your kids and will do anything I can for each of you.

Jesse Amberson I'm really thankful I had the chance to grow up with you. I remember when we were little kids you, Aaron, Andy, and Myranda, Heather, and myself use to be neighbors and played together just about everyday. This is really hard to except and believe you're gone. You didn't get to live life long enough. We'll all miss you so much. I'll be praying for your family. We'll see each other again. Rest In Peace my friend.

STEPHANY PHILLIPS, OCTOBER 11, 2016

I knew Jesse and hung out with him very briefly in school, but he always was a really nice guy to me. My heart goes out to all the family, especially those that will feel the loss the most. I am praying for his children, his wife, siblings and parents. I can't imagine the pain right now and am sad that this world has lost another great guy. I pray that understanding will one day heal and make sense of this tragedy. In love, Alicia.

SHERRY MYARS-ROSS, OCTOBER 10, 2016

I met Jesse in April. Some people you just are immediately drawn to and like immediately... He was one of those... Full of life and taking care of everyone around him.. The worlds a lesser place without him. From the many conversations I had with him over a beer or two I'm certain his greatest concern right now would be not for himself (a man's man type of guy) but for

Stephanie and the kids who he talked about very frequently. You could tell where his joy was . He lit up when he talked about them. God bless you bro
