Memorials

There is so much I'd say to you old friend. I've looked for you off and on over the years. Then today I find you in the obits. I missed you by three months. I still don't want to believe it. I'm flooded with memories of us through elementary school and junior high. Sneaking up on the roof of Cook Elementary in the middle of the night. Riding our bikes all over Austin growing up. Carrying an inner tube raft down to the Colorado River and dang near getting washed away! We had us some adventures as young men. Sad we never had a chance to get together for a beer and reminisce. I miss you, old friend. See you on the other side.

I am so sorry that we lost touch. I did try and make contact with you right before I left Austin Texas and returned to OHIO. I was just thinking about you. There is so much I would have said to you, and so much I would have asked you. You were only eight years old when we meet. Where did all the time go.
